Have you heard of AAA-battery powered cell phones? Well I'm pretty sure that you might have heard of such technology, but surely, majority of these AAA-battery powered devices are somewhat short-lived, as clearly, the idea behind such concepts isn't practical at all. Generally, Olive Telecommunications has recently unveiled their latest AAA-battery powered cell phone called the FrvrOn V-G2300, and it runs on any standard AAA battery that you can find in the market.

In fact, the Olive Telecommunications FrvrOn V-G2300 comes with a 1.5 inch color display, and you can even tune in to your favorite FM radio using the handset as well. Also, the price is pretty decent, whereby it will only cost you $37 to purchase. And do take note that the phone is available in India only.

So take a look at Olive Telecommunications's FrvrOn V-G2300 AAA battery powered phone:
